BE CAREFUL SI!

If American foodstuffs destined to Holland, Denmark, Italy, Sweden, Norway, Spain and other neutral territories in Europe may be seized at will by Great Britain on the ground that the stuff is contraband of war and likely to fall into the hands of Germany, a great blow will have been struck at American commerce. This nation does not propose to take sides in the war in Europe. At the same time it has certain rights which all belligerents are bound to respect, including the right to carry on trade with neutral nations. It cannot afford to relinquish that right or permit it to be overriden by any nation under the pretext of military necessity.—Washington Post.

DR. PATH ALWAYS GETS 'EM.

A former member of the Kentucky Legislature, now engaged in the practice of law in Louisville, tells of the time that the question of permitting osteopaths to practice was a mooted one in the legislative body. There were arguments pro and con until the speech of a mountaineer statesman did much toward settling the question.

Obtaining recognition, he spoke somewhat as follows:

"I'm in favor of letting those osteopaths practice. The homeopaths practice. The allopaths practice. All the other 'paths practice. And, after all, we may do well to remember that, as the poet says, the paths all lead but to the grave."

FASHION NOTE.

While the new fall styles for women have a tendency to show less veal in the process of mounting high street car steps, the "V" backs and "see" fronts still are worthy of distinguished consideration.—Commercial Tribune.

GOING DOWN.

Evelyn Thaw is to become a cabaret dancer and will shortly be seen with Jack Clifford in dances at the New York Roof Garden.

Learning that Philippine independence meant under of American strategic command of the lie, "the fighting ground of the future," and a conflict between the Orient and the United States, commercial or otherwise, was inevitable, given the House by Republican Leader Mann, a vigorous speech opposing the Administration Philippine Bill.

It is rumored that the Drys are so "flushed with victory" that they will throw their hats in the political ring and nominate candidates of their own for all county offices at the next election. The more the entries the more exciting the horse race. Come on in; the runnings fine. We shall see what we shall see.

The war furnishes a handy apology for an emergency tax, the possibility of which was mooted in administration circles months before the war was dreamed of, and when the revenue insufficiency of the new tariff plus the income tax began to be sharply realized.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

It is no longer the high cost of living—its the high cost of Democracy that's hurting the country, always has hurt it and will hurt it until the "common peepul" get wise.

MARSE HENRY HANDS OUT

ADVICE TO SHELBYVILLE.

Editor Watterson in The Courier-Journal in a lively editorial headed "Prohibition in Shelbyville" winds up by saying:

Nothing is so good a test of the value of prohibition law as experience of it. As a rule that test has not proved it to be valuable from an economic or moral point of view. Shelbyville was "dry" when the Editor of the Shelby News, one of the speakers at the Thanksgiving meeting, was a lad in knickerbockers, or an infant in the pre-pentagon stage of development. Drunkenness was then fairly common as a spectacle in the streets. Drinking was a fairly popular form of dissipation or diversion. Everyone knew where whisky could be bought. The journey was not long. The path was well worn. A wayfarer though a fool could not err in an effort to find and follow it. Whisky did not pay a tax, but it paid the illicit dispensaries and it paid the devil. If anyone was dry when the town was so by law it was because of an abundance of ability to withstand temptation, or because of a cultivated taste which was discouraged by the quality of the beverage that was procurable, or because of an utter lack of money.

It is desirable that the Editor of the Shelby News, the ministers of the Gospel and other excellent and vigorous citizens who are participating in the effort to enforce the law be persistent and successful. If whisky pays no tax it should not be allowed to take any toll. If the licensed barrooms, with their admitted evils, are to be eliminated at the cost of the loss of the revenue they return, the boot-logger and the blind tiger should be scourged from the county. Let the gentlemen who have worthily subscribed to the fund for law enforcement be prepared to subscribe again, and yet again. Let the gentlemen who are prepared to serve their community as special policemen, detectives or prosecutors, get themselves ready for a long task as well as a hard one. Eternal vigilance and eternal militancy, eternal expenditure of energy and cash may accomplish nearly anything that is not beyond the pale of possibility, but as a rule there is a disappointing and disabling lack of stick-to-it-iveness in popular movements for the enforcement of law, to say nothing of the well-known faculty of the forces of evil and of darkness for circumventing the forces of righteousness and light where popular sentiment is not as militant as that of the members of a law and order league.

A health—in water, of course—to the Law Enforcement League! May its life and works be a shining example. May its experience prove the exception to the rule.

The Russians are talking about how they would make peace. Their general idea is that Russia must have all the pieces on her side of the dish. The plan that appeals most strongly to the land appetite of the Russian bear just now, according to the reports of observers on the spot, requires that the German empire be abolished and Prussia made a second-class state. If the scheme could be carried through Russia would not only get a fine window looking into Western Europe, but also a secure lodgment on the Adriatic Sea, which, of course, means the Mediterranean Sea. That would make England sit up and take notice.—Hartford Current.

New Hampshire Democrats pledged to President Wilson "their unwavering trust and devotion." If any Democratic President ever deserved that tribute President Wilson does, but there are aspiring Democrats who are not devoted and not inclined to trust him.—Commercial Tribune.

A new-comer to Idaho from the strictly Prohibition State of Kansas had the misfortune one wintry day to fall into the rapids of a swift-running river when the thermometer stood several degrees below zero. He was saved with difficulty, and his clothes became a rattling shroud of ice before his rescuers could get him to the nearest saloon. "What'll you have, Dan?" inquired the "bar-keep" solicitously. The Kansan opened his eyes and answered weakly, "Guess I'll take a glass of lemonade."—Lippincott's.

BITS OF BY-PLAY.

Paw Knows Everything.
Willie—Paw, what is luck?
Paw—Common sense, my son.

A Peach.
I thought she was a peach. Oh, woo!
Her action made me groan;
She turned me down, and now I know
Her heart is a hard stone.

Mean Brute.
"A woman has to give up a great deal after she gets married," sighed Mrs. Gabb.
"A man does nothing else but give up after he gets married," replied Mr. Gabb.

Correct.
"What is a raffle?" asked the Boob.
"A raffle," replied the Grouch, "is a scheme in which you buy 49 chances and the other fellow buys one chance and wins the prize."

(Cincinnati Enquirer.)
Ho'd Kick Anyway.
Man always kicked about her clothes.
She used to wear too many;
And he still kicks, though, goodness knows,
She's wearing hardly any.

Huh!
"What does bull con mean?" asked the Old Fogey.
"That is an abbreviation for Bull Moose Convention," replied the Grouch.

Same Old Story.
She has no use for Mr. Bings.
And all his sex she seems;
Before they married he had wings,
But now the brute has horns.

Paw Knows Everything.
Willie—Paw, what is the difference between a political job and an ordinary job?
Paw—You have to work hard to get a political job and you have to work hard to hold an ordinary job, my son.

THE DUE FELL.

The editor of a country paper received the following query: "Can you tell me what the weather will be next month?" In reply he wrote: "It is my belief that the weather next month will be very much like your subscription."

The inquirer wondered for an hour what the editor was driving at, when he happened to think of "unsettled." He went in the next day and squared his account.—Exchange.

SEEK $450,000,000 LOAN.

Washington.—Several Southern Congressmen appealed to President Wilson not to consent to an adjournment of Congress until the cotton situation in the South was relieved. They asked that $450,000,000 be loaned to cotton growers by the Government.
